

Ground Reaction Forces Coach Education Day with Steve Gould

'This was the best Education Day I have ever attended. Incredible information and the practical session in the afternoon eye opening'. Gary Hanham, Head Professional, GC Lucerne

'I thought it was fantastic how Steve combined basic laws of physics with the golf swing, to give a good understanding of the general subject of ground reaction forces. Learning a moment arm was something new for me and extremely valuable'. Richard Swords, Advanced PGA Professional, GC Basel

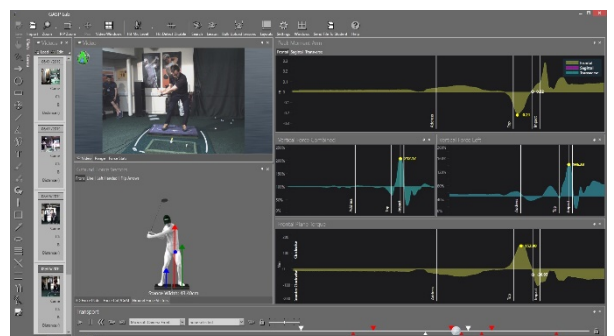

'Very interesting and I believe very important for the future of golf coaching'. Fredrik Svanberg, GC Davos

- What you need to know, and how to use this concept to improve your Coaching
- New information that will help you coach better immediately
- The importance of Centre of Mass (COM) and Centre of Pressure (COP)
- Defining Forces, Creating Forces and Measuring Forces

With the phenomenal power of players like Brooks Koepka and Dustin Johnson, the talk at the edge in the golf coaching world has turned to dynamics and forces. Steve Gould has worked with some leading biomechanists at the edge of this research. Steve has created an Education Day that has been exceptionally well received from PGA Coaches. He has lectured to many different PGAs and is regarded as the 'go to man' to decipher science into usable information for the lesson tee.
